Rainbow-Plus

Rooted in Jung's theories, Rainbow-Plus helps you:

- decide your likely personality type
- understand how different types might misunderstand or annoy each other
- recognise differences and turn them to advantage

The theory

The underlying theory is that people differ in the ways in which they prefer to :

- be energised
- take in information
- make decisions
- conduct their lives

Each of the 16 possible combinations these choices give rise to,
is represented by one of the circles or triangles in the Rainbow-Plus diagram

The workbook, given to all participants, provides stickers denoting each type - these can be attached to name badges

At the Rainbow-Plus Session

You will

- complete the Rainbow-Plus questionnaire
- assess yourself in terms of the four underlying preferences
- become aware of which circle or triangle represents your likely type

After the Session

You can use the information given in the workbook to:

- spot different types
- understand differences
- use this knowledge to help maximise the value of personal and business relationships
